HALL KNOCKED OUT

Fitzsimmons Wins the Biggest Purse Ever Offered.

1 Terrific Blow On His Opponent's Jaw Ends the Contest In the Fourth Round.

The Fight In Detail-How It Is Regarded by Pugilistic Experts -The Scene at the Crescent City Club-Much Money Lost.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9 .- The result of the fight last night for the middleweight $40,000, the largest ever offered for such a contest, was a surprise in one respect at least. While there were many people who believed that Fitzsimmons would defeat Hall, there was none, who thought that the fight would last but four rounds, and that it would be won by a blow, which should not have been permitted to "land" with full force, by such a scientific and dexterous fighter as Hall had previously shown himself to be. Hall and Fitzsimmons, old time rivals in their native country, Australia, and probably the best two men in their class (if Hall can be considered a middleweight), were both anxious to settle the question of superiority. The result was the contest of last night, which Fitzsimmons, contest of last night, which Fitzsimmons, the newly naturalized American citizen, won in four short, sharp rounds, his victory entitling him to the purse of $40,000, the side bet of $10,000, and the almost undisputed middleweight championship of the world.

The betting was neary even on the two men, although "the talent," including Mitchell, Sullivan, Corbett, McAuliffe and nearly all the Eastern sporting men favored Hall. The contingent from the South and West were for Fitzsimmons. It is estimated that fully 10,000 people saw the fight last night, the Crescent City Club being crowded almost to its capacity.

The arrangements at the ring side were perfect. The seating capacity was ample to seat more people than were expected to attend, and a perfect view was promised for paying patrons and deadheads alike. There was room for 13,225 people, and there was no need for squeezing. The lights dis-tributed about the amphitheater were nu-merous in quantity and exceptional in qual-ity. The growd was representative in merous in quantity and exceptional in quality. The crowd was representative in character and thoroughly cosmopolitan. In Hall's corner was light-weight champion McAuliffe, Charley Mitchell, and 'Squire Abingdon. Fitzsimmons had men no less faithful than Hall's attendants—Billy Fitzsimmons, his brother, Martin Julian and Frank Bosworth. D. O'Malley was time-and he set a lively pace by doing all the leading, and landing frequently with his left on Hall's body. Hall was slow, and did not succeed in landing a single blow with effect. Hall was full of confidence, and while he did not go into hard lighting he was excusable, owing to the fact that he was gept so busy dodging and warding off Fitz's blows that he had no time to show the people his ability as a hitter. Fitzsimmons was quick, and judged his distance so admirably that he landed almost every blow he delivered with great accuracy. Hall received some stinging blows on the ribs, but he was so thoroughly trained that they had but little or no effect. The aggressive manner of Fitz rather took Hall by surprise, and made him realize that he had no easy task to perform.

manner of Fitz rather took Hall by surprise, and made him realize that he had no easy task to perform.

Hound 2—Fitzsimmons still pursued his leading tactics and landed his right and left several times very hard on Hall's body; he also got in a good right and left on Hall's face. It was not until Hall succeeded in working Fitzsimmons into a corner, where he got in several good stift blows, that he began to strike out ireely. He showed up in such fine form toward the close of the round that the majority of the spectators began to have their doubts as to lanky Bob's ability to hold out against so powerful an opponent, as Hall was by far the stronger of the two. Both men did some very hard hitting and their blows fell upon each other like hall. Honors were pretty evenly divided, and many thought Hall had a trifie the best of the hitting.

Round 3—At the call to the center Hall stepped biskly forward, and led off with his left and caught Fitzsimmons square on the nose. The blow dazed the lanky man, yet he fought gamely and returned the compliment by sending his left on Hall's stomach. Hall landed again lightly on the meck, and both clinched. By mutual consent they separated, both laughing. Hall led right and left, reaching his big antagonist's body and neck. Content for a moment with this, Hall walked around the ring, Fitzsimmons following. Fitzsimmons missed a swinging right-hander, but he planted his left on Hall's stomach. Hall got his left hand jab in Fitzimmons's face again, making the champion's head bob back like it was on springs. Hall followed the performance with a beautiful right and left on Fitzsimmons's head and side, but the big Australian got back most too far to have the blows do any damage. Fitzsimmons missed a swinging blow for Hall's Fitzsimmons retreated, apparently no worse for the blows. The round ended by Fitzsim-mohs missing a swinging blow for Hall's stormach mohs missing a swinging blow for Hall's stomach.

Round 4—The men were both in excellent condition and full of fight when the gong sounded for the fourth round. They responded to the call like gladiators, and went at each other as though they intended to find the winner in short order, but they had scarcely warmed up to their work when Fitz landed that dangerous right of his on the point of the jaw, and Hall fell to the floor like a dead man. It was a hard fall, and the back of Hall's head came in contact with the floor with such a thud that it could be heard all through the building. It was a clean knockout, and was some minutes after he was counted out before his seconds succeeded in restoring him to consciousness, and then he had to be carried to his corner.

The scene following the knockout was the

The scene following the knockout was the wildest that has been witnessed at a ring-side for many years. Bob caught up the American flag and waved it over his head like an Indian, while the crowd cheered and yelled like Hottentots. Fitz was de-clared the victor, and the winners were clared the victor, and the winners wore happy smiles.

After Hall had been brought back to consciousness Fitzsimmons skipped nimbly to his room and, without putting on his clothes, drew on a heavy overcoat and jumped into a carriage with his wife and drove to his quarters. Mrs. Fitzsimmons, unobserved by the throng, had witnessed the fight through the crevices of a room upstairs. A great crowd congregated in front of the winner's quarters on Canal street, giving him a rousing welcome as he drove giving him a rousing welcome as he drove up. After he had gone up-stairs the cheer-ing continued, and Fitzsimmons came out on the balcony and made a modest speech on the victory.

The Winners and Losers. NEW ORLEANS, March 9 .- But few people from the West won on last night's fight, and scarcely ten from the East took away pocket money. Of the New Orleans men who won, the leaders. They had backed Fitzsimmons at all stages of the betting and won a large roll of greenbacks, $12,000 each, it is said. Sandy Griswold, sporting editor of the Omaha Bee, lost $200. E. R. Martin, of Kansas City, won $200. Dr. Ordway, of the Police News of Boston, lost $450. Col. Wm. Mahon, of Boston, also lost $500. Abe Levy, of Chicago, won between $5,000 and $6,000. Frank Jones, of Kansas City, won $4,000 or $5,000. John O'Neil won $3,500. Martin Davis, of Chicago, was one of the few winners from that city. He won $2,500. Steve Brodie lost $3,000. Charlie Mitchell lost $2,800. 'Squire Abbington, his backer, lost heavily. He does not know how much, as his "secretary" has not reported.

Jack McAulifte dropped $1,500. Bat is said that Pat Sheedy won $20,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 9 .- Champion James J. Corbett was interviewed after the Fitzsimmons-Hall fight, and asked for his opinion on it. He said: "It is the greatest middle-weight fight that ever took place in this country, and Fitzsimmons is undoubtedly the greatest middle-weight in the world. It will take a heavy weight to knock him out, and in my opinion nobody but Jackson or Slavin can defeat him. I hate to admit this, but I am compelled to do so." Corbett bet on Hall, as did his backer,

The men entered the ring at 9 o'clock promptly, Hall leading the procession. Referre Duffy took his position almost immediately. Hall was loudly cheered upon entering the ring. Fitz came in waving the American flag, and received a tremendous by ation. President Noel and Chairman of the Contest Committee Joseph Short joined the men in the ring, while Captain Barrett took charge of the police arrangements. Referree Duffy made a speech, in which he asked the crowd to preserve order. The men then advanced to the center of the ring followed by their seconds, when Referree Duffy cautioned them about fouls and the usual club rules. Captain Barrett weighed the gloves, finding them of lawful wight, handed them to Martin Julian, who took them over to Hall for his choice, and Mitchell selected his principal's gloves. Referree Duffy announced that the pivot blow was barred, and the men stripped. Time was called and the great battle was on.

THE FIGHT IN DETAIL.

Round 1—The men shook hands a few minutes after 9 o'clock in the orthodox, old-time fashion, both men coming to the cratch with a jauntiness which showed their seeming lack of care. They commenced work in a very "cagey" munner until Fitzsimmons finally led with the left and fell short of his mark, Hall's left on the counter barely touching his face.

Bitzsimmons was the most active of the two, blooking for more worlds to conquer. He took up at Sidney, Aus-trails and immediately started to meet all comers at the renowned Larry Foley's sporting emporium. First he defeated Jack Brinsmead, a heavy-weight who tipped the beam at 170, Bob only scaling 148 pounds. Then in rapid order he settled the pretensions of the following middle-weights to champion-ship from the Foley stage: Jack Greentree in three rounds, Dick Sandel in four rounds, Bill Slavin, brother of Francis Patrick, in seven rounds, and Joe Eager in three rounds. He next laid low Martin Conway, champion of Ballarat, in three rounds, and Dick Ellis, a heavy-weight in three rounds. Then came the famous battle with Jim Hall, in which Fitz-simmons claims that he "laid down" for the paitry consideration of £15, or about $75. Fitzsimmons also claims that he afterward thrushed Hall in private in five rounds, but that statement also lacks verification. Bob redeemed himself by defeating Starlight, the celebrated colored middle-weight of Australia, in nine rounds, and Professor West, a heavy-weight, in one round. He then came to the United States, and defeated in rapid succession Billy McCarthy, a fellow-Australian, before the California Athletic Club in nine rounds. Arthur Upham, before the Audubon Club of New Orleans, in five rounds, the famous Jack Dempsey, for seven years middle-weight chambion of America, in thirteen rounds before the Olympic Club of New Orleans. His last victory was over Peter Maher, the "Irish champion," whom he vanquished in twelve rounds.

JIM HAIL'S CAREER.

Jim Hall was born at Sydney, Australia, July 22, 1888. As a boy he was a lover of all kinds of athletic sport, but did not take to boxing until he had almost 'reached man's estate. Once he entered the list he sprang rapidly to the front. His first battle of importance was with George White, a middle-weight, whom he knocked out in nine rounds. He then conquered in short order Jack Mabry in six rounds and Jack Slavin, brother of Paddy and Bill Slavin, in six rounds. He then defeated Jim Nolan, who outweighed him by twenty-eight pounds, in eight rounds, and fought Jim Fogarty (the jaw-breaker), another heavy-weight, to a fifteen-round draw. He tried to knock out Jim Burge, the Australian "fron man," in ten rounds, but failed. Next he battled Peter Bolamy for the middleweight championship of Australia and won in sixteen rounds. Then comes the mund disputed contest with Bob Fitzsimmons, his present antagonist. After this episode Hall defeated the following men in the order named: Herbert Goddard (brother of Joe) twice in four rounds each, Tut Ryan in five rounds, and Pablo Pangue in four rounds. The only defeat Hall sustained in in Australia was at the hands of Owen Sullivan, heavy weight, "Champion of the Harrier" before his defeat by Joe Goddard. Sullivan weighed 182 pounds and Hall but 186, and naturally was compelled to succumb in the cleventh round. Since his advent in the United States Hall has given athletic exhibitions, meeting all comers and knocking them out with the greatest-ease. He was matched nearly two years ago to fight Fitzsimmons at St. Paul, Minn, but the fight fell through, owing to police interference. Last fall he astounded Squire Abingdon. Charley Mitchell's present backer, and all the sportsmen of England by knocking out Ted Pritchard, who was supposed to be invincible at his weight, in four rounds. Pritchard, although but a middle weight, was cham

NRW YORK, March 9 .- The Naronic has peen out twenty-six days and has not been spoken once, nor seen since she left the Mersy early on the morning of February 11 for this port. Her agents are still hopeful that she may be heard from. Maritime Register has this to say editorially: The non-arrival of the White Star steamer Naronic is causing much alarm, although it is probable that she will be heard from either at Fayal, or in tow with machinery damaged. That she has not been sighted proves nothing as against other of these chances. Fayal is a port in the Azores, about three hundred miles west of St. Michael, and there is not, it is said, frequent communication between the two islands. St. Michael is a coaling station, and nearly all steamships out of coal obtain fresh supplies there. It is not impossible that the Naronic may be heard from at Fayal, but that she will be sighted in tow seems to be unlikely.

THE NEW CONSUL-GENERAL.

THE NEW CONSUL-GENERAL.

The consul-generalship at London, a position now held by Gen. John C. New, of this city, is regarded as the best-office in the gitt of the President. An exaggerated opinion prevails as to its salary and emoluments. The salary of the office is $6,000 a year, with an allowance of $2,700 for clerk hire and rent. The fees, however, which go to the consul-general make the office worth probably $30,000 a year above all expenses. In addition to this it pays over to the Government about $75,000 annually in so-called "official fees."

Gen. Pat Collins was born in Fermoy, Ireand, in 1844. His family came to this country in 1845, and settled in Chelsea, Mass. He worked at the upholsterers' trade for eight years, and gave his leisure hours to study, entering Harvard law school in 1868, and was

In 1875 he was Judge Advocate General or the State, and a delegate at large from Massachusetts to the Democratic national conventions of 1876 and 1880, and was nominated for Attorney-General. In 1882 he was elected to Congress, and he was twice re-elected. He was chosen president of the Irish Land League at the convention held at Buffalo in 1884. Mr. Quincy's Position and Career.

Josiah Quincy's entrance into public life was made about seven years ago, when he was elected secretary of the then newly-organized Massachusetts Tariff Reform League. Since that time he has taken an active part in the political affairs of the State, serving three terms in the Massachusetts Legislature as representative of the town and city of Quincy, and standing as candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket in 1888 in the Old Golony district. Although originally a Republican, Mr. Quincy found in 1886 that his views upon the tariff question could not be reconciled with those of the Republican party, and he joined the Democracy. Since then he has been one of the most active and helpful men in the Massachusetts Democracy.

He was willing that Gray might be sent to China or some other mission, but objected to his being given the Mexican mission because he felt that it would lessen the chances of recognition of other Indiana Democrats.

When the rumor got abroad on the street yesterday afternoon that Gray's nomination would be sent in to-day, Shanklin hurried over to the White House and asked Private Secretary Thurber if he might be permitted to see Mr. Cleveland. Being informed that the President was very busy, Mr. Shanklin said he would call this morning, as he did. Before leaving, however, he anxiously inquired of Mr. Thurber if it were true, as reported, that ex-Governor Gray was to be nominated to-day for minister to Mexico. "I do not know." was Mr. Thurber's reply, "but I do not think it is true, at least it is not settled now so far as I understand."

The Various Contests Going On—What the Congressmen Are Doing. [Special to The Indianapolis News.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.-The Indiana Congressmen are getting out of the city for their homes rapidly. Congressman Shively went several days ago to South Bend. Mr. Conn, his successor, who has been overrun with applications for office, and has been giving close attention to arranging the recommendations he intends to make, will leave for his home this week. Mr. Patton and his successor, Mr. Ham-mond, will probably go together the latter part of the week. Mr. Hammond, too, is wrestling with a large number of applications for office, and is finding it very difficult to apportion them to his own satisfaction. Congressman McNagny, who succeeded Mr. Mc-Clellan, has a room at Willard's and has been holding levees from early morning until late at night daily with the crowds of Indiana politicians who stayed over until after the inauguration. Mr. McNagny hopes to return to his home this week also. Mr. Holman will stay in Washington a month or more yet. Mr. Brookshire returns to Terre Haute to-morrow.

General Black, will recommend the appointment of Colonel Busey. Mr. Yoder, of Ohio, sergeant-at-arms of the House, will also make an application for it. Several of the friends of Gen. Edward S. Bragg, of Wisconsin, ex-minister to Mexico, are anxious for him to make application for Commissioner of Pensions. He is now a candidate for minister to Mexico, but has not asked for the indorsement of the Wisconsin delegation, and, according to all reports, is not very certain of securing that appointment. Gen. J. S. Catlin, of Brooklyn, has been mentioned for commissioner also, as has ex-Congressman McKinney, of New Hampshire.

Appointments To Be Made Rapidly. Some of the Indiana leaders who have had access to President Cleveland say that the appointments requiring the President's immediate attention will be disposed of very rapidly. They say that Mr. Cleveland does not think it advisable to delay matters and provoke a long scramble for places, but knowing that the changes must be made, he is in favor of making them as rapidly as possible. Beginning early next week it is expected the appointments will fall thick and fast until all the changes of immediate importance will have been made. It is said that the first of July will see the work of cofficial decapitation much further progressed than it was at a corresponding date following Mr. Cleveland's previous inauguration. Among the first important diplomatic appointments that will be made will be the English mission and the Mexican mission. The former will be vacant at once, as Minister Lincoln will be vacant at once, as Minister Lincoln is anxious to return to Chicago as soon as possible. Judge Lambert Tree, the well-known Democrat of Chicago, who was once the caucus nominee for Senator of his party in Illinois, is an avowed candidate for the place. He is a close friend of Mr. Cleveland's, used to be a frequent visitor at Lakewood and Buzzard's Bay, and contributed liberally to the campaign fund last year.

Gen. Dan Macauley To Go.

One of the first changes that will be madin the official roster of Washington will necessitate the departure of the genial Col. "Dan" Macauley, formerly of Indianapolis, He is appointment clerk of the Treasury, pointments coming under the department. It is evident that a Democrat will be chosen to succeed him before the work of reorgan-izing the department can fairly begin. This izing the department can fairly begin. This place was filled by Eugene Higgins, of Baltimore, under Mr. Cleveland's former administration. Higgins was a protege of Senator Gorman's, and because of his agility at wielding the suickersnee rendered himself decidedly unpopular with the mugwumps and civil-service reformers. Mr. Owens's Successor.

successor as superintendent of immigration will, in all probability, be Herman J. WITHDRAWN BY THE PRESIDENT. The Hawaiian Trenty Recalled From the Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9 .- President Cleveland has sent to the Senate a message withdrawing the Hawaiian treaty, which has been pending there.

Washington, D. C., March 9.—Secretary Carlisle has authorized the announcement that he would exercise all the power and discretion vested in him to uphoid the credit of the Government and maintain the parity of gold and silver. This statement was made to brush away the rumors that have gained circulation about what he con-templated doing as to maintaining the gold reserve in the act as to the issuing of bonds, or as to paying United States notes and United States treasury notes in silver when the free gold was exhausted.

The example of Denver, Colo., offering $1,000,000 in gold in treasury notes has been followed by Chicago bankers, who to-day offered $500,000 in gold for United States onered $500,000 in gold for United States notes. At the Trensury Department it is thought the bankers in other cities will do likewise. There is a feeling of releif as to the gold balances at the Trensury, and unless the exports of gold on Saturday are unusually heavy, the Trensury Department will have ample gold to supply the demand.

Senator Hill Calis on Cleveland. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.-The one great feature of interest in political circles to-day is the visit of Senator David B. Hill to President Cleveland. Senator Hill came to the White House this morning, by ap-pointment, presumably arranged by Con-gressman Rockwell, of New York, during his visit to Mr. Cleveland on Tuesday. That his visit was more than a mere perfunctory call is attested by the length of the interview. It lasted twenty length of the interview. It lasted twenty minutes, and during that time Mr. Cleveland received no cards from the waiting politicians in the Cabinet room. Mr. Hill came early. The great flood of office-seekers had not begun to flow into the White House when he arrived. He passed rapidly through the hallway in the public part of the mansion into the room of Private Secretary Thurber, who evidently had been posted, for he ushered Mr. Hill into the adjoining executive office without a moment's delay.

Mr. Cleveland Settles It. [Washington Special Indianapolis Journal.] Congressman Bretz, of Indiana, called on President Cleveland yesterday and said: "I just come to know if it was true, as reported, Mr. President, that you will appoint no one who has ever held office under "It is true, sir," was the President's direct reply.

"Well," said Mr. Bretz, slightly out of breath, "does that apply to postmasters?"

"It does," came the President's answer. "It applies to all offices."

President Cleveland has made clear another line of action. He has re-emphasized his determination to permit all postmasters who are efficient and honest to serve out the full four years for which they are commissioned. When it comes to foreign missions, consuls and the partisan positions, such as district attorneys, marshals, pension agents, etc., he will make changes.

THEY HOPE TO CARRY THE STATE AT NEXT ELECTION.

Expectations Based On Demo Dissatisfaction and Disapp ment-Meeting of the Prohis

bition State Commi

Although the next State election in Indi-Although the next State election in Indiana is twenty months off, the Republican leaders have "figured out" that they will carry the State when it does occur. The members of the party feel that things "have been coming their way" recently, so far as this State is concerned, and the leaders say that the party organization will not neglect to take advantage of all the campaign material furpished by the Democrats. It is probable that a meeting of the Republican State committee will be held soon to take advantage of all the campaign material furpished by the Democrats. It is probable that a meeting of the Republican State committee will be held soon to consider the situation and to make arrangements to profit by the campaign material which the Republicans believe the Democrats have furnished them. "I can not say when a meeting of the committee will be called." said Secretary Milliken. "One may be called before a great while. I have not seen Mr. Gowdy for some time, and do not know what his wishes are. The party organization is in excellent condition and will not be neglected between now and the next election.

"Will the suit to test the constitutionality of the new apportionment be pushed?"

"I think there is no doubt of it, It will be brought at once, and the courts will be asked to decide the question as soon as possible. I think it is due the people of Indiana that this question be determined in a way that there can be no misunderstanding about it. With precedents all around us it seems to me that there can be no reason for waiting until the next election is to be held to raise the question. I was in favor of testing the apportionment of 1891 immediately after the adjournment of the Legislature, and so stated at a meeting of Republicans held here, but it was deemed wise at that time to wait. We shall certainly not fall into that error this time."

The Republican leaders base their expectations of carrying the State in two years on the record of the recent Legislature and the dissatisfaction among Democrats who will have failed to get office under President Cleveland. The leaders say that under a reasonably fair apportionment the Republicans will be able to secure a majority on joint ballot in the next Legislature; that throughout the State there is a universal condemnation of the recent Legislature, and that if an election could be held at once the Republicans would elect an overwhelming majority. They expect much of this dissatisfaction to disappear during the next eighteen months, but there will s

There will be at the command of the committee a staff of voluunteer lecturers who will talk prohibition in every county in the State between now and the next election. The members of the committee are bitter against the recent Legislature because it refused to enact a law to give the party watchers at the count of ballots. They reiterate the charge made immediately after the last general election, that the old parties counted them out of many thousand votes. It was stated this afternoon that the committee would probably adopt resolutions denouncing the Legislature for not passing the bill concerning this question.

MEETING OF DEMOCRATS THAT DISCUSSED HIS AFFAIRS.

It Was Thought Wise to Give Him an Appointment in Order to Have Him Out of Indiana-Comments on the Nomination.

It has come to light that the nomination of Isaac P. Gray as United States minister to Mexico was practically agreed upon in this city. The night of Governor Mat-thews's inaugural ball a secret meeting was held, in a law office here, of prominent Democrats from all parts of the State. At that time Gray was considered a Cabinet possibility, and there was much opposition to him, and the feeling among some was that Gray should not be recognized at all, and especially should not go into the Cabi-net. John G. Shanklin took an active part in the meeting, and urged that in the interest of "good politics," Gray should get something. "If he does not," said Mr. Shanklin, "he will be the man about whom all the disappointed Demograts in Indiana will rally, and in two years he will have the most powerful following in the State." Mr. Shanklin urged that Gray be sent out of the country so far that he would not be in touch with the Indiana

John P. Frenzel was opposed to any recognition for Gray, but finally agreed with Mr. Shanklin that it would be "good polities" to have Gray recognized and send him across the sea. While the subject was under discussion S. E. Morss came in. He was in evening dress and did not remain more than ten minutes. Mr. Morss when asked for his opinion replied that his name was pending for an appointment and he did not think it proper for him to take any stand, but personally, he said, he was in "avor of Mr. Gray being recognized. The Mexican mission was mentioned and Mr. Shanklin opposed it. He thought that would keep Gray too near home. It was finally decided to urge him for the Chinese mission.

This knowledge of meeting came to the ears of Gray's friends and James Murdock, of Lafayette, and Hugh Daugherty, of Binfiton, hurried on to New York and saw Mr. Cleveland, and from him received the understanding that Mr. Gray would be appointed minister to Mexico it he desired. pointed minister to Mexico it he desired. Gray was communicated with and said he would take the place, and it has been given to him. Had the meeting mentioned not been satisfied that Gray would not be appointed to a Cabinet place, a strong fight would have been made against him. Now it is said that Gray's friends will "remember" some of the men in that meeting when there was up for office.

they come up for office. For three weeks, it is said, Mr. Gray has had no idea that he had any chance what-ever to be a member of President Cleve-land's Cabinet, and had fixed his hopes upon the Mexican mission. It is said that more than two weeks ago he had the assurance from friends who had been in com-munication with Mr. Cleveland that he could receive the Mexican appointment, but had not allowed himself to be unduly certain until the bird should be actually in his hand.

Many Democrats who have been opposed Many Democratics who have been opposed to Gray do not like to put themselves in print as approving the appointment, though they profess themselves to be pleased over the situation. They are glad that Gray is to be sent abroad. They would have preferred the Chinese mission, or competing even further away but Mexwould have preferred the Chinese mission, or something even farther away, but Mexico will suffice. They did not want Gray left to stand in the attitude of a martyr to gather about him all the disappointed office-seekers and make trouble, as they say he undoubtedly would do had he not received substantial recognition. Some of his friends and some of his enemies wanted him sent to Russia. Others would have preferred Siberia. The Russian mission, however, was considered out of the question, as all the coutries represented at St. Petersburg send their most skillful diplomats, and Mr. Gray's knowledge of diplomacy is not considered great. 4

Others say that, as Mr. Gray is a man of

COMMENTS ON THE NOMINATION. How the News Was Received By Various

The following comments were made upon the nomination of Isaac P. Gray to be minister to Mexico:

State Auditor Henderson (Democrat)-To me personally, this appointment is gratifying. Gray is worthy of the position, or even a higher one; had President Cleveland seen fit to so will it. I regard Gray as one of the strongest Indiana quantities. He has been, is and will be of great value to the party—a magnificent debater, a good fighter, who has defended the true faith like a brave knight. While there have been some antagonisms to Gray, I think they have about spent their force, and the party in the State will generally rejoice that he has been so handsomely recognized by the Governor Matthews (Democrat)-The appointment of Mr. Gray is an admirable one. He will fill the position, all its demands and duties with a high regard both to himself and to the administration. It is also creditable to President Cleveland, in that it is a graceful recognition of a competitor before the Chicago convention. Mr. Gray, I know, will feel gratified because it has been the place all along that he has had his heart set upon. A great amount of wild talk was indulged in by supposed author-ities as to a place in the Cabinet, but the Mexican mission is the one place he has most desired.

Pierre Gray said his father was in the East and he did not know when he would be back. The when he would be back. The Mexican mission, he said, was first-class with a salary of $17,500, and from every point of view was one of the most desirable in the whole list. He supposed he would leave for Mexico as soon as he could arrange his business affairs. Mr. Gray said, further, that the report that he would accompany his father as his sceretary was erroneous. He did not know who his father's secretary

Attorney-General Smith (Democrat)-The pointment is a just one, and Mr. Gray is serving of it at the hands of President Cleveland. Mr. Gray is entirely competent to fill the office, and the affairs of the Re-public of Mexico, as they relate to this country, will be carefully and honorably looked after. I feel delighted that the apointment has been made, James B. Curtis (Democrat)—I am well pleased with the appointment of ex-Governor Gray to be Minister to Mexico. I think he deserved recognition from the ad-ministration, and I do not believe his ap-pointment will interfere with others in this State receiving recognition who also deserve it.

Albert G. Porter (Republican)—I think Mr. Gray was entitled on account of his services to the Democratic party, to some important station and that this appoint-ment is only a just return for his exertions. I think he will make a capable and efficient minister.

P. H. McNellis (dem.)—I do not understand that appointment, in fact, I can not see why he should receive it, but I suppose it was considered for the best. I do not know what influence was brought to bear that should get him a place like that.

Leon O. Bailey (dem.)—I believe the appointment will give eminent satisfaction to the Democrats of this State, and it is a just recognition of his services on behalf of the party.

Controller Woollen (Democrat)—I think

Decision In the Western Elevator-Indianapolis National Bank Case.

The Supreme Court handed down a decision this afternoon in which the West-ern elevator, of West Indianapolis, was involved. The elevator was built many years ago by Brown & Boyd on the right-ofway of the I., D. & W. railroad. The Indianapolis National Bank held a lien on the elevator, the claim being that the bank furnished $100,000 to erect the building. The road shanged hands and a demand was made for the ground occupied by the elevator, it being asserted that the structure was a part of the ground. The lower court decided in favor of the bank and the Supreme Court reversed the

The young woman was morning and struggling to escape from the man's grasp. They boarded the car, and the girl's sobs and cries aroused the sympathy of the passengers. It was learned that she was a domestic in a family on Talbott avenue. Her mistress sent her to the grocery this morning and the girl's father, who lives at North Indianapols, met her on the street and ordered her to come home. This she refused to do, and the man attempted to force her. The girl says she was of age and trying to earn her own living, and that at home she was beaten and abused. They were put off the car at Tenth street for creating disturbance, and started home on foot. Orphan Returned to This City. About three weeks ago, Thomas O'Donof Beaverville, Ill., applied to the Orphans' Home for a boy to adopt. HE SINGS INTO A FUNNEL

THE NOVEL CALLING OF A VERY VERSATILE MAN.

Silas Leachman a Monopolist in His Business of Loading Phonographs -How Startling Effects Are Produced by Him.

(Chicago Hereld 1 The company which deals in Edison's talking machines has a large number on exhibition for revenue only in the public resorts here and elsewhere. There is a con-stant demand on the part of the patrons of the machines for something new, lively, popular, up with the times. To supply this emand, particularly so far as it relates to humorous musical selections, the company employs a man of remarkable flexibility of voice and with exceptionally good powers of mimiery to compose songs, both the words and the music, and sing his own productions into a long funnel attached to a phonograph or a battery of phonographs. The performer seats himself at a piano, on top of which a phonograph rests, adjusts the big funnel so that the mouth of it is directly in front of his his own mouth; strikes a chord; sets the electric current running through the machine; makes his own announcement; thrums the prelude, and then sings his song to his own piano accompaniment. The machine gets in its deadly work, so that when the song is ended the words and music are cut into a composition, waxlike roller, and are ready for reproduction. If the performer be curious to know how his voice sounds to other persons, and how his efforts are likely to fall upon the ears of a crowd, all he need do to satisfy his curiosity is to readjust the machine, start it anew and listen. From machine, start it anew and listen. From the funnel come the tones, clear, distinct and faithfully reproduced. The performer before the phonograph has this advantage over the performer on the stage: If his "turn" displeases him he can destroy the cylinder upon which the record has been made, and there publicity ends. The stage singer cannot remove, destroy nor change the impression he has made.

IN VERSATILE AND PROLIFIC

IS VERSATILE AND PROLIFIC. If the "record" be good, the loader of the phonograph puts the wax-like cylinder in a box, labels it with the title of the song impressed upon it, and begins on a new effort. These good records are put into the machines found in public places or sent out to owners or lessees of private machines. They can be duplicated and ordered by title, as sheet music is sold. They range from grave to gay, from sentimental to jocose, from somber to "quick and devilish." In the present instance they are the work of one man-Silas Leachman-a talented fel-American Phonograph Company supply all the topical, comical, timely ongs it may need. He turns out, at an average, three new songs a week, and has een known to compose as many as twenty in seven days. It's all fun for him. He is an old performer, though still young in years and spirit, and his dialects are letter perfect. He does more than sing; he "orates," narrates, imitates, declaims and instrumentalizes into a funnel with the greatest of artistic ease. If he wishes to vary the program of his own productions ne switches his voice down to a heavy barytone, and rids himself of a rich Irish ballad in mellifluous brogue. If something on the broader and less serious vein is wanted, Leachman takes a few reefs in his voice and Billy Golden's "Rabbit Hash" is done to a turn. When sentiment is called for—something in the line of the sympathetic pathetic-Leachman "I Can't Believe Her Faithless" flow into the hearts of his imaginary hearers. In making such records as these the men idenwith the songs are not robbed

GUARDS AGAINST INJUSTICE. Before beginning an imitation the only professional loader of phonographs makes an appropriate announcement in the funnel before which he is making records, thus, in dramatic inflection:

"'I Can't Believe Her Faithless'-a sentiental ballad, as sung with great success by Len Spencer." There's a two-fold object in this-to give the original singer his dues and to make recognition of the cylinder easy if the written title be lost. For instance, suppose the lessee of a phonograph -some rich man on the boulevard-wanted to treat his friends "phonograph concert," and desired that they should hear among other things some popular solo from a standard opera. And suppose that the record cylinders became mixed; that instead of the operation air, the masseating "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" found its way to the machine. Then and in that case the lessee and operator of the phonograph would not have to hear more than "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" as sung by Lottie Col—" before he could choke off the abomination and shift the cylinders. Mr. Leachman claims no credit for originality in the recording of other people's work, but is, nevertheless, entitled to praise. Not long ago a popular balladist nut his ears to long ago a popular balladist put his ears to a phonograph in Chicago and was surprised to hear his own song in apparently his own tones coming fall and strong from the ma-chine. He had never sung for an invisible audience, so far as he knew, and his mystification was not cleared away until the ex-planation that "Leachman did it" was vouchsafed. He was satisfied, so clever was the imitation. Some performers object to having their work put into a phonograph, and one went to law about the matter, claiming that he was being injured by the theft, he called it, of his originality. The case was decided against the objector.

Very striking effects are possible to the phonograph. In the song, "The Salvation Army," can be heard, first, the verse, then the chorus of voices singing "Hold the Fort," then the tum-tum of the tambourine, the braying of the horn, the crunch of the bass drum and the hallelujah groans of the wounded. In the rendition of that spirited darky hymn "Don't You Heah Dem Bells?" are distinguishable the shouts from the amen corner and the jubilant cries of the enthused "sistern"—in this case represented by Mr. Leachman's better half—and the character half—and sented by Mr. Leachman's better-half—and the church chimes played by little Ethel Leachman. And when the song and accompaniments come out of the phone the performers enjoy the effect fully as much as would persons to whom the experiences are not of every day occurrence.

Another good effect of the phonograph is seen, or rather heard, in the reproduction of dialects. Mr. Leachman talks into the funnel first as an Irishman, then successively as an Italian, a negro and a Chinaman, the four engaging in a heated and sively as an Italiana, a nexro and a Chinaman, the four engaging in a heated and characteristic discussion of politics. The effect is startling in the precision of the reproduced dialects. In this connection may be noted a peculiarity of the invention. It will "catch" a spoken broque or dialect without a skip or jump, but when the same thing is sung the reproduction is jumbled. Therefore dialect songs sung into the funnel must be in half tints, as it were. Necessarily the professional loader of phonographs must be a very versatile man, apt in song, story and recitation, and prolific in what stage folk call gags, business and effects. Inexperience would find the vocation puzzling, too. This is so because of the necessity for proper modulation. Shrill, piercing tones, like the wail of the clarinet or the top notes of a soprano, are much more easily recorded than the full, round notes of a barytone.

He was asked, in reference to the Monon receivership, if Ives and the Ohio Southern were mixed up in the matter. "The Ft. Wayne, Terre Haute & Southwestern is mixed up in it," was the reply. "This is a road leading from Ft. Wayne to Terre Barrie, of which ten miles in Clay

THE GEORGIA EVANGELISTS. Great Crowds Throng the Meetings With Few Conversions.

(Special to The Indianapolis News ) KOKOMO, March 9.- The fifth day of the Sam Jones revival meetings in Kokomo closed last night and one more week of the series remains. Frankly, if Evangelist Jones is to keep his promise, made in the beginning, of shaking this town, which was "so rotten that one could no more slander it than pour something on a skunk to make him stink." he must start it without much further delay. Jones has the crowds with him. They number from 1,500 at the morning meetings to six thousand at night, the afternoon congregations seldom running below three thousand. But running below three thousand. But up to last night but one call for penitents had been answered. The contrite hearts numbered fifteen, and as the main familiar in church pews, it is not certain that they stood in crying need of the saving grace. But Jones has led Kokomo to expect great things for to-morrow night, when he will preach a to-morrow night, when he will preach a special sermon to men, and to men alone. On that occasion, as he puts it, "something will bust," "You ought to be there," he said, "for you'll find blood and hair, and the ground tore up about here the next morning." They will "be there," there's no question about that. As has been said, the crowds are with Jones. Through the disagreeable drizzle of yesterday and last night the four meetings at the taberdisagreeable drizzie of yesteruny and last night the four meetings at the tabernacle were crowded with "Jonesites," as the scoffers have come to term them. Still, the contributions amounted to but little more than $50. As there still remains $700 to nay on the tabernacle, it is not plain to see pay on the tabernacle, it is not plain to see where Jones's reward is coming in this side of eternal accounting.

Death of James H. Crookston, James H. Crookston, who has been connected with the New York store for many years, died last night at St. Vincent's Hospital of consumption. His long connection with the store and his habit of frequenting hotel corridors made him a familiar figure to many persons. He was buried this after-

THE STREET-CAR SITUATION

THE CITIZENS' COMPANY AND ITS NEW OWNERS.

Complaints of Delay In Settling the Terms For Granting the Franchises-Mr. McDonald Goes to New York.

It is said that under the contract the new owners of the Citizens' street railroad must take possession of it not later than March 25, when the last payment will be made. A. L. Mason says he does not remember the date, but says the contract drawn up by the Chicago people is an exceedingly strong one. The Verner-McKee syndicate have, Mr. Mason says, made all payments as required by the contract, and will continue to do so until the property is paid for. He says that the question of a franchise nor any of the details of the business have been The transfer of the property will be made in Chicago.

DELAY IN GRANTING FRANCHISES. The Board of Public Works heard the attorneys for the Broad Ripple road yesterday afternoon and adjourned without acting, or indicating when they would act, upon the petition for a franchise

Much complaint is made by those who ecretary.

Crawfordsville, September 11 to 15, W. W. are interested in street-railroad franchises because they can not secure any information as to what is expected of them or what terms will receive. Even in the secret sessions of the Board of Public Works nothing is divulged, they say, that will throw any light on the subject. The city authorities say that there is no hurry. This has caused the McDonald people and the "unknown" to hint that the delay is in favor of the Citizens' company, and various politicians have taken advant age of it to declare that it is a Democratic Muncie, August 14 to 18, M. S. Claypool, sector, Newport, October 3 to 7. John Richardson, The friends of Mr. Sullivan say says to the sector of Mr. Sullivan say to the sector that politics has no influence on the question. The delay, they say, is because the city wants to know if it has a right to give away franchises before the contract with the Citizens' company expires. That company claims the right to the streets and alleys of the city, and City Attorney Jones is trying to find out whether the claim is good or not.

Mr. McDonald left for New York this afternoon. He said that he was disappointed at the delay of the board in acting on the application for a franchise. He had come to Indianapolis expecting to remain here the remainder of the week closing up the franchise inspires but as there were no the franchise business, but as there were no indications that the board would give him an answer soon, he had concluded to go to New York, where he has business demanding his attention.

Another Meeting Called. A meeting is called for to-morrow night at the Criminal Court room to take action on the street-car question. The two propo sititons referred from the previous meeting will be acted upon. The first provides for three-cent fares and the expiration of the franchise in 1908, track rental and gross receipts to be set apart in a special fund for the purchase of the plant. The second favors the building and exten sion of the lines wherever public needs de-mand, and, if necessary, to lease the opera-tion of the same for a short period to the highest bidder, or to the persons agr to carry passengers at the lowest rate.

DAMAGE BY WIND. Results of the Brisk Blow Last Evening.

A hurricane blew over central Indiana last evening at 5 o'clock. At Brightwood it struck the southeast corners of three fac-tories and partially unroofed them. These were the bent-wood, terra cotta and desk works. The damage to the terra cotta works was probably $700. The factory was not running to day on account of the damage sustained. Many trees were blown down, and fragile fences and sheds were leveled. Further north, at Castleton, the school-

In North Indianapolis new houses in course of erection by Mr. McCord, on Armstrong street, and by Mr. Bremmerman, west of the canal, were leveled to the ground. Windows were smashed in Mr.
Cosler's house, on Rader street, and in Mr.
Cobb's house, just across from Mr. Cosler's;
also in Mr. Tyler's house, on Armstrong street. The wind seemed to strike only the highest points, which probably accounts for highest points, which probably accounts for the fact that no damage was done in Haugh-ville and West Indianapolis. In the city the wind howled fiercely for a dew minutes. Many chimneys were blown down; Spiegel & Thoms's building skylight was damaged; the roof of one of the Premier steel-works buildings was lifted, and the roof of Olaf Olsen's bolt-works was partly blown off. Rain accompanied the wind. After the wind had partly died down by the residence of the roof of Olaf Olsen's bolt-works was partly blown off. Rain accompanied the wind. a bright rainbow in the east gave false promise of fair weather. It was succeeded by a rainy night and a rainy day.

A Receivership Not Improbable.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.] FRANKFORT, March 9 .- It is currently believed that the Clover Leaf railroad difficulties can only be adjusted by placing the road in the hands of a receiver, and this is expected to occur at any day. The Charleston men refuse to return to work, and the Delphos men will go out it is said. President Calloway has promised that the 25th of each month will be established as pay-day. Another report that receives common credit is to the effect that the Pennsylvania system is trying to get hold of the Clover Leaf.

The Rivers Are Rising. GALENA, Ill., March 9 .- The heavy rain of the last twenty-four hours have carried away the last vestige of snow, and the rivers and streams are flooded. Galena river is out of its banks and rising rapidly, and a disastrous flood is threatened. Railroad bridges have been swept away and traffic is invested.

THE GERRYMANDER.

THE Republican leaders are wise in deciding to strike at the gerrymander while the iron is hot. They owe it to themselves and to the State to bring the new enactment promptly before the courts. This is not simply a partisan but a patriotic duty. They represent all the people of the State, irrespective of parties, who believe in fairness and right. The majority of the rank and file of the Democrats, we believe, are opposed to the law as it stands. Mr. Hord spoke for more than Green

The Republicans recognize their large obligation and, as we reported yesterday, will make preparations to institute proceedings to test the constitutionality of the law without delay. The precedents established in other States make it certain that it is not necessary to wait till an election is pending. The proposed action will be begun in the Marion County Circuit Court, and, whatever the decision of that court may be, will be carried to the Supreme Court for final adju-

It is incumbent on the Republicans to prepare their case with the utmost care. The best legal talent should be employed, that the case may be presented with the greatest dignity and force possible.

The conditions surrounding the present action, .if brought immediately, will be entirely different from those which attended the early stages of the previous litigation. Then the State was in the midst of a political contest, when party spirit ran high and men were likely to be swayed in their opinions more by prejudice than by judgment. Now an election is far away and there is ample time for the of a new law in case the court adheres to its former decision. The merits of the case van be calmly considered and discussed.

The decision rendered by the Supreme Court in December accorded with the decisions unanimously rendered in similar cases in Wisconsin and Michigan. In Wisconsin the majority of the court were Democrats, in Michigan wa of the five judges (one the Chief Junice) were Democrats. Where so many judges of both parties agree on a question, and their conclusions are generally admitted to be sound in common sense and right, there is little doubt that their view is also good law.

It seems, therefore, to have been sheer folly or wanton obstinacy for the Indiana Democrats to insult and defy the Supreme Court, by re-enacting a law pronounced to be unconstitutional. The political complexion of the court, to be sure, has been changed. But what of that? The court will not be likely to reverse a decision on a constitutional question for merely party reasons. When men are placed on the Supreme bench they cease to be partisans. They are a co-ordinate branch of the government, in the special keeping of whom the constitution is placed. When a question of its violation comes before them they are not likely to ask what effect this or that decision may have on the temporary fortunes of any political organization, but simply: "Does this law transgress constitutional limitations?"

As it happens in the present case, the Democratic majority of the Supreme Court, even if they were likely to have their judgment warped by party prejudices, will be under no temptation to violence to their better judgment and so strain a point for party's sake. For even on the low ground of party expediency a gerrymander is not not needed in this State by the Democrais. Under a fair apportionment bill, on the basis of recent elections, the Democrats would still have a safeworking majority in both Houses of the General Assembly.

It is passed by an overwhelming vote, showing what the General Assembly thinks of it. Then it goes to the Senate. There is no doubt what that body will do if it comes to a vote.

The lobby redoubles its efforts. The whole policy now is to smother the bill winds. The president of the Citizens' mony with the sentiment of the city on this matter, and was working for the passage of a similar law, now labors ceaselessly to prevent this bill from getting before the Senate. The Senate committee is very deliberate in considering it and in preparing its reports. When it is ready to report, the session has reached that period when a single objection will block a report. The Citizens' company knows can not find a Marion-county Senator. But the notorious McHugh of Tippecance is ready for the job. How he is influenced to play the impertinent role of objector we do not profess to know. No one supposes that he did it for pure love of objecting, or for high constitutional reasons, or on any other grounds complimentary to himself and to the aggressive lobby that he was serving. And the scheme succeeded. Mr. Frenzel is entitled to all the glory he can get out of his success. There is a sense of exhilaration in winning, even in a bad cause and by the help of Grossarts, Curtises and McHughs. But after all, the pity of it! Mr. Frenzel doubtless felt himself required, by the headship of the Citizens' company, though it had sold out, and though he had been treated by the new men with conspicuous discourtesy, to do a law which might add to the company's burden of taxation. But the interests of the city ought to be quite as important as the interests of a corporation. We do not doubt that Mr. Frenzel is entirely sincere in his change of opinion. But we do not think that he can be justified in his lobby methods. We do think that faithfulness to his employers did not require such ostentatious zeal in their behalf, especially after his attitude of two years ago.

The action of the street railway com pany with reference to the paving bill has not increased the popularity of the company, and it was none too great before. When it comes to the city for new privileges, its conduct should be borne in mind. In the natural course of events, had the company used its privileges in a public-spirited manner, it would be entitled to first and best consideration in the granting of a new charter. Now the rejudice will be, and very properly, not in favor of the company but against it. The mysterious new owners have been following bad advice in signalizing the beginning of their ownership by filling the will be no "light bread." Third House with their clamor against a measure on which the sentiment of the city is a unit. The methods of the new owners have been from the start open to criticism. Everything they have done so far leads to the conclusion that the city can not be too careful in any dealings it may have with them.

NOW FOR ROBY!

IT is cheerful news that reaches us from Chicago, The highly-moral institution that "Chicago business men of wealth' have established at Roby, which has been closed for a few days, is to be reopened. The dispatches say that the noble industry of winter racing and pool-gambling, which our Legislature approves purpose in becoming the owner of a newspaof, will begin again either Saturday or Monday next.

The managers ought to do something to signalize the great event. We suggest that they have Johnson or McMahan there to make a speech, or that they issue a souvenir edition of Johnson's classic report, ornamented with pictures of the committeemen. Certainly they should pay honor to them that have lauded Roby. More than that, they ought "to do something" for Johnson. No company of benefactors should allow any man to sacrifice name, political prospects, and the respect of his fellow-citizens, without trying to make up to him in some way for all that he has deliberately thrown away. Surely Johnson should have a good place at Roby. Why should he not be made poet laureate of the concern? Put him in the judges' stand; place a wreath of bays upon his head, and between races let him chant speak well of him, and there are a number of local anecdotes concerning him which would be immense,

DERELICTS To THE inland mind the word derelict conveys no serious meaning. It is accepted as a matter of course that now and then an abandoned ship floats aimlessly about at the pleasure of winds and currents, but it is difficult to imagine that there could be so large a number of derelicts in the vast ocean as to menace more fortunate craft whose sails or engines still know a guiding hand. Mariners, however, view the ocean wanderers with considerable dread, and it is their duty to report the location and character of abandoned ships to the hydrographic office at Washington. The information thus collected is conveyed to masters of yessels for their guidance. An interesting chart is now being compiled by the hydrographic office. It will indicate that silver took possession Maspereau was greatly alarmed about his portable property. He had a great quantity of silverware which had been in the family through several generations. His sisters also were well supplied with this metal. Maspereau was afraid of raiders, and packing up all his silver, together with that of his sisters, put it on board a vessel to ship it for safety to New York. This came to the ears of Butler. The vessel was not permitted to sail and Masperean was sent for. He entered the presence of Butler in fear and trembling. Butler, in a stern voice, asked why he was sending his plate away, and Maspereau told him for safety; that he didn't think it secure in New Orleans. as a matter of course that now and then an THE smothering of the street railway hand. The sentiment in this community was almost unanimous in favor of the passage of the bill. The thing it sought to accomplish is required of street railway companies in other American cities. John R. Elder, who recently returned from a trip to New Orleans, while speaking of Gen. Benj. F. I have even heard some native Louisianians have not been in print that show that now and then he even went out of his way to do a gracious act. Among those who had reason to change their views of Butler was a wealthy Creole named Maspereau, a sugar merchant and banker. He did not go into the army, but his sympathies were with the South,

Hot Versus Cold Baths. [Demorest's Magazine.]

But it is in the hot bath that we find the greatest temptation to its abuse. The cold bath, being more or less vigorous, requires some courage in the bather, and there are a comparatively small number of people who are in danger of using it to a harmful extent. The warm bath, on the contrary, is luxurious. We indolently enjoy splashing luxurious. We indolently enjoy splashing in the soft, warm water, and have a sense of luxuriousness in the gentle languor which pervades us after the bath is finished. Added to this sensuous luxuriousness is the Added to this sensuous luxuriousness is the feeling that we are doing a very commendable thing. If bathing is good for us, we can hardly have too much of it; so we go on half parboiling our bodies daily, and undermining our health, under the impression that we are doing it for the sake of cleanliness. A little over a year ago Konrad St. Jern feldt landed at Boston. He kept the fact of his royal blood a studied secret. Few who listened to his sermons dreamed that his father had held the scepter on the Swedish throne. The young foreigner began work at once as a revivalist. He would hire a church and hold meetings for two or three weeks. Then he began at a new location, but always in a large city. His work was among those of his own nationality. From Boston he went to New York, from New York to Ohio, and thence back to New York. Months ago he arrived in Chicago and began a course of study at the theological school of the Northwestern University. His purpose was to fit himself for the Christian ministry. He progressed so well that something over six weeks ago he was sent out to preach at the Norwegian Methodist church on Maplewood avenue.

Through his coming before the people of this church he met Miss Kathinka Petersen. She was handsome and twenty-one. She had been prominent in work among the various clubs and societies of the church. It was a very short time until the new minister was telling Miss Petersen that he loved her, and his passion being reciprocated, an early marriage was the logical sequence. The affair was celebrated with great eclat by the cream of this city's Scandanavian population. Mr. St. Jernfeldt declines to say much about his future prospects. The Maennerchor Society, under the direction of Mr. Carl Barus, gave its third concert of the season last night at Maennerchor Hall. The first part of the program included the solos, chorus and fugue of the "Creation Scene," from Rubinstein's "Paradise Lost;" a piano solo (Ascher), by Miss Kopp, vocal solo (Bohn), by Miss Schalmeyer and a ladies' chorus (Abt.) The second and fourth finales of Lortzing's "Undine" were the first numbers in the second part of the program, which were followed by a violin solo (Wieniawsky) by Mr. W. The inclemency of the weather prevented large attendance at the concert given by he Roberts Park Musical Society last night, but the program rendered was of such excellence as amply to repay all who were present. In its several numbers in 6 choir howed an appreciation of ensemble methods, singing with precision and producing an admirable tone. Of the other numbers, Mr. Schleiwen's second solo was the most notable. His selection, Aris Hongroise (Ernst), is of such extreme difficulty that it is rarely attempted even by the violinists of New York and Boston. Its technical difficulties would baffic ordinary players and require for their mastery by a skilled musician long and tedious practice. Playing with unconscious grace these were surmounted by Mr. Schliewen with as much apparent ease as if he were giving some simple melody. The refinement with which he phrased, his plasticity of touch and decisiveness of bowing made it an education as well as an enjoyment to hear him.

Miss Mary E. Linck, a graduate of the Chicago Conservatory, and an Indiana girl, has been engaged by Mrs. Carl Rosa in London for the Covent Garden Opera Company. The engagement is for three years. Mr. Samuel Kayzer, director of the Chicago Conservatory, claims the honor of having introduced to the musical world this talented young woman. Several years ago he was invited to Evansville, Ind., to direct a performance of "Martha," which was to be given for some charitable object by an amateur society there. He there heard Miss Linck, who sang the role of Nancy in Flotow's opera, and was so enthusiastic about her voice that he at once offered to take her to Chicago and educate her at the expense of the conservatory. The offer was accepted and soon Miss Linck was under the instruction of Sig. Vittori Carpi, to whose careful and thorough methods is largely due her prominence as a musical artist today. He has also done much in the way of securing operatic engagements for her, and by drawing the attention of leading impresarios to her gifts. She is twenty years old and of German descent. At the last conservatory concert at the Columbia Theater she appeared as the page in "Linda di Chamounix." She made her debut in London in the part of Siebel in "Fanst." Miss Mary E. A gathering of musical composers has been held at Paris, presided over by M. Gounod and M. Joncieres, to hear and examine the two inventions of Messrs. Besson & Co., the pedal clarinet and the cornophone. M. Gounod, as the spokesman of the composers present, advocated the definitive adoption in future orchestration of these instruments, which, he said, "added two fresh colors to the musician's pallette." Verdi's long-talked-of opera "Falstaff," was produced a short time ago at La Scala, Milan, in the presence of an immense audience, and the production is described as an unqualified success. The London Times correspondent says it may be said at once that it is in all respects worthy to rank with the great masterpiece of Verdi's Times correspondent says it may be said at once that it is in all respects worthy to rank with the great masterpiece of Verdi's genius, "Otello," the opera in which the composer proved his power of adaptation to dramatic methods entirely at variance with those he had formerly upheld. The libretto is most skilfully arranged from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," with very slight additions from the first part of "King Henry IV." The music is in the highest degree original, and the presence of a strong comic element gives it a distinctive character, although it could not be described as light music in any sense. The opera was received with boundless enthusiasm by a vast audience. The opinion of the musical authorities seems united in regarding "Falstaff" as the most masterly of Verdi's works, and as remarkable, not only for its sustained ensemble, but for the youthfulness and freshness of its inspiration. Amongst the critical representatives of the foreign press at Milan, the enthusiasm approaches extravagance, and there is no appreciable difference of opinion as to the supreme quality of the art of the work. The King and Queen telegraphed their congratulations, and all Italy is exultant over the splendid success of its greatest musical genius. Milan counts last week's demonstration as one of the greatest glories of her modern history. It is commonly remarked that the work, from the novelty and variety of its motives, is rather like that of a young and rising genius than that of a man passed eighty. The second representation of

THE CATHERWOOD STOCK.

SPECIAL FINDING BY JUDGE BAR-THOLOMEW, SUPERIOR COURT.

The Company Liable For the Loss Sustained, and the Plaintiff Entitled to Recover Value of Stock and Dividends.

Judge Bartholomew this morning renlered a special finding of facts and cor sions of law in the suit of Charles F. Robbins, administrator, against the Citizens' Street Railroad Company. The case involved three hundred shares of stock held by H. H. Catherwood, who was, until his death, in 1872, secretary of the company. The Court finds that after the death of Catherwood his widow qualified as administrator, and that as such she petitioned the Court to sell the shares of stock, which the Court finds were appraised at 15 cents on the dollar, their face value being $30,000. It was ordered upon this petition of the administrator that the stock be sold at private sale. The Court finds that the stock was not sold either by public or private sale; that a pretended sale was made to the father of the administrator, John Carlisle; that no security was taken, and that no cash was paid for stock; that the consideration was a note due n ten years, wholly unsecured, given by the purchaser; that the administrator was personally, and not as administrator, the payee of this note.

The Court finds that afterward, full well knowing the facts, and with knowledge of the order of the Court concerning the sale of the stock, the administrator issued new of the stock, the administrator issued new-certificates of stock to Carlisle and can-celled the old ones, and that thereafter the stock so held by Carlisle was sold to one Churchill, an innocent purchaser. It is also found that the administrator did not report the sale of the stock to Carlisle to the Court the sale of the stock to Carlisle to the Court and that the sale was not approved. The Court also finds that after 1881 and before 1888 dividends upon stock of not less than 1 per cent. and as high as 4 per cent. have been declared semi-annually.

The conclusions of law are that the pretended sale of the stock was void; that the stock was wrongfully and illegally cancelled by the Citizens' Street Railway Company; that the present owners of the road (the Citizens' Street Railway Company) are liable for the loss sustained; that the plaintiff is entitled to recover value of stock in 1881, with interest and dividends, amounting, in total, to $37,220.

ing, in total, to $37,220.

The defendants took exceptions to the rulings and will again take the case, which has been in the courts since 1872, to the Supreme Court. Mrs. Catherwood has since married R. B. Phelps, of Brooklyn; the decedent's two children are his sole heirs.

decedent's two children are his sole heirs.

Judge Bartholomew finds that when the street railroads passed into the hands of their Chicago owners in 1888, Tom L. Johnson, in making the sale, gave indemnity to the purchasers for any judgment of over $6,000 that might be obtained in the suit which was then pending. Under this agreement Johnson would be chargeable with $31,000 of the indement $31,000 of the judgment.

Verdict For the Brother. For four days a jury in Judge Brown's court has been hearing the troubles of Mary O'Conner and Michael Foley, brother and sister. Mrs. O'Conner sued Foley to eject him from a piece of prop-erty she said she owned. The jury, after being out all night, brought in a verdict for Foley, giving him possession of the property

A small-sized race war occurred before the North Indianapolis postoffice Monday afternoon. Two young white women from over the canal were called "white trash" by colored girls, who had come out of the postoffice, and the former drew their buggy whip and wound it around their colored sisters. The latter retaliated by "smashing" with their fists until the white women whipped up their horse and weut off home.

There is a likelihood that the local tickets at the May election in Brightwood this year will be straight Democratic and Repub.

Heretofore, it is said, the Democracy has been led into trouble with such schemes as "Citizens' tickets," "People's tickets," etc., the result being that there has always been a Republican majority on the boards. The testimony against suspected characters was heard by the grand jury this morning.

Miss Agnes Coburn, of West Indianapolis, thinks the moth that was found on Wilson street last week was one that she sent out into the free air a day or two previous. A half dozen that she had kept in a warm room all winter had come out and this one sent forth to try its luck in the fickle weather. Melville Hodges, of River avenue, West Indianapolis, has one that is six inches from wing to wing. It has thrived for two weeks among the flowers by the window, the boy occasionally sprinkling sugar upon the flowers.

A BOY STUCK IN THE MUD. A BOY STUCK IN THE MUD.

The little son of H. Jones, of Morris street, West Indianapolis, while on his way to school No. 4, yesterday morning, got stuck in the mud so that he could not tricate himself. The teachers and women of the neighborhood could not get him out, and the men were all away to work with the exception of a baker, who works at night. He was aroused from his sleep, and securing a number of planks made a walk out to the little fellow hoisting him up got him all out but his boots, which remained buried in the mud. The town board last fall ordered the street in front of the school-house improved, and the contractor got it all torn up just as cold weather came on. It has since been in bac condition during soft weather. Mr. Shinn, president of the school board, was asked this morning why the board did not build a temporary plank walk until the contractor finished the work. He answered contractor inished the work. He answered that the law made no provision for spending school money to make streets and sidewalks, and that the fault lay with the town board if teachers and pupils could scarcely get to school on account of the condition of the street.

LITTLE FRED REID MISSING. Fred Reid, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Reid, No. 76 Judge Harding street, West Indianapolis, had some trouble with his teacher yesterday, and was sent home. The disgrace was too much for him, and he has disappeared. The parents are distracted, and have asked the efforts of the police to help find him. He told some of his playmates that he was going away on the 5 o'clock train. Dispatches have been sent to Terre Haute and other towns in the State.

A DAILY FASHION NOTE.

Choose Filmy Laces That Do Not Have Pronounced Designs.

Written for The Indianapolis News.1 The material of the dress sketched is light silk, with dark colored satin ribbon for the high-standing collar, sleeve bands, and for the belt and long sash. Its most striking feature is the novel trimming of lace at the neck and sleeves. Odd bits of ace could be used in imitating this garni-In purchasing lace one imperative rule of good taste in selection should be borne in mind. Never choose a pattern in designs. The pattern should have outlines which are not interfered with by shifting and change of view. One thing that misleads you is that laces are usually displayed flat over a piece of velvet, "to bring out the pattern," but that is just what you don't want if the lace is to be used in folds. The well-regulated pattern which attracts you on the counter will lose all its pictorial value when it sways in the ir-regular fluting of a Bertha. Indeed, if the on the counter will lose

How much better it is to choose wavy designs, having no regular outline, but with a curve and sweep that is to choose wavy designs, naving no regular outline, but with a curve and sweep that already give an undulating effect that is only increased when the lace hangs in folds. The modern woman is by no means the only one for whose taste solids have been put into the gentle web of laces. It is told of Queen Charlotte that the English caused a piece of lace to be made and presented to her, the design of which was founded on the destruction of the invincible Armada by her fleet. There were men of war, their masts bending before the wind, dolphins every bit as big as the ships, forts only as big as the dolphins, bundles of flags and of weapons alternately displayed, and all on a network of square meshes dotted with stars. Now, if it is not bad enough to consider such a design on meshes, consider a woman bearing on her shoulders the image of a frigate in distress, or at her throat dolphins sporting near a fort, or about her wrists flag staffs and weapons shirred onto a cnfil So, I say, avoid such designs.

One idea is to creet a large building and store the baggage in it, but this is not deemed practical. With huge piles of baggage it would be impossible to get out a single piece unless it was near the top, and the place would be in constant confusion and the baggage all mixed up. Another plan is to run the baggage are to the the baggage all mixed up. Another plan is to run the baggage cars out to the end of the station, let each G. A. R. post take all its "luggage" possible and store the remainder in the different baggage-rooms. This idea is not as practical as the officials would like, and a committee of three was appointed to see if something better can not be secured. The amount of baggage left after a G. A. R. encampment is remarkable. There are hundreds of pieces in the baggage-rooms at Columbus, St. Louis and Milwaukee that were left after the encampments in those cities.

revening and was in the crowd at the door when it was the thickest. Suddenly he felt an iron grasp on his wrist, and he was nulled to one side, as a voice exclaimed:

"Keep your hand out of my pocket."

Mr. Stiltz looked up and found that he was held by Sergeant Laporte.

"Tm no pickpocket." gasped Stiltz struggling to release himself.

"That's all right, my fine fellow," continued the officer. "I felt a hand in my pocket and I think it was yours."

"I'd like to know what a policeman has in his pocket that anyone would want," exclaimed Stiltz again.

By this time the affair had attracted the attention of a number of persons, and Stiltz was much mortified. He could hear the remarks about his youth and beauty, and he nearly fainted. But when two young ladies in whose good opinion Stiltz wants to stand high saw him, and one exclaimed to the other, "Oh, Mag, look at George Stiltz. That policeman has him. I wonder what he has done now," everything grew black around him. The officer finally pushed him to one side and let him go. Stiltz is badly "broken up" over the matter, and is thinking of preferring charges against the officer.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTRY'S CONTROLLING MARKETS.

To-Day's Fluctuations of Value Due To Distribution and Demand-The Local Markets-The Jobbing Prices.

A long continued steadiness gives local job-bing markets few features. Trade among the wholesalers is brisk, though hardly active. Poultry is stronger again to-day. A few changes in dry goods are noted. Old prices prevail in other lines.

THE GOVERNOR'S NEW PLAN.

Differences Between Aspirants Must

were opened this morning not a man was waiting to see the executive. It was surprising, as the demands on his time by callers have been heavy ever since the beginning of his term. The number who called yesterday was large, but to-day it was small. The reduction in the number of visitors was due to a decision of the Governor yesterday. Several differences have occurred in some of the cities of the State, especially at Logansport and Muncie, over the appointments of police commissioners, and temporary fac-tions have been created among the politic-ians of those two places at least. They carried their differences to the Governor's office for him to settle. This he refused to do, and yesterday he gave it out the factions must agree the factions must agree upon candidates. He would then make the selection if those named me with his approval. In the Municie and Logansport contests he declined to appoint the candidates over whom the contests were being made, and suggested other citizens. Other persons are now being considered by the Democrats of the two cities, and as soon as they reach an agreement the appointments will be made. While these questions are being settled outside of the Governor's office, he is look-ing over a heavy mail, which has been accumulating for several days. It rebeen accumulating for several days. It re-lates exclusively to appointments. The Governor has been working from early morning until late at night for some time, and is almost worn out. For a time, at least, he will give only regular business hours to the consideration of public affairs. Two appointments were made this morn. Two appointments were made this morning. E. A. K. Hackett and Mrs. John H. Bass, of Ft. Wayne, were commissioned trustees for the School for Feeble Minded Youths, Mr. Hackett is editor of the Ft. Wayne Sentinel. Mrs. Bass is the wife of the well-known brass founder of Ft. Wayne, and is closely identified with charitable work in Allen county.

COLLIDED WITH A FREIGHT. A Fatal Wreck On the Philadelphia.

Wilmington & Baltimore Road. PHILADELPHIA, March 9 .- A pas train on the central division of the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore railroad, deiphia, Wilmington & Baltimore railroad, which was due here at 9:20 o'clock this morning, collided with a freight train on the Wilmington & Northern railroad, at Chaddsford Junction, about 8:45 o'clock. Engineer. Phillips, of the passenger train, was killed, and conductor William Cummins, of the same train, was badly injured. The passenger engine plunged into the middle of the freight train and then rolled down an embankment by the side of Brandywine creek. The passen.

It is reported that the fireman of the passenger train was also killed, but this has not been verified. The railroad officials in this city do not know the cause of the wreck, but it is supposed to have been due to a disregard of signals. Lead Poising in Canned Goods.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.] "You should have a law in America such as we have in France," said T. B. Kirkland, of the firm of Adre Eyquem, of Bordeaux, France, at the Southern yesterday. "By our laws such a thing as lead poisoning in of the firm of Adre Eyquem, of Bordeaux, France, at the Southern yesterday. "By our laws such a thing as lead poisoning in canned goods is an impossibility. Here it is a very great probability. Our system is known as the outside solder system, and it is niterly impossible for the lead to come in, contact with the goods. Your system is all inside solder. When the can is first opened the goods should be used right away. Some people, however, use a portion of the contents and permit the balance to remain standing over night. Now, immediately the can is opened and the air strikes it a change takes place in the tin and lead, and where the goods are allowed to stand in the open can the chances for lead poisoning are very great. In canning fruits and vegetables in this country you pursue a very different plan from the French. Our cans have but one piece of soldering. That is on the outside and down the front, where the can is joined. When the can is filled allight elastic band is placed in the steam bath and allowed to cook for twenty minutes or a half an hour, and sometimes as much as forty minutes, according to the goods. The nir escapes through the elastic band and the pores of the can. In America the soldering of th

Limiting the Hight of Buildings. CHUAGO, March 8.—After months of labor on an ordinance limiting the hight of buildings, a committee of the City Council last night reported that in its judgment the hight of Chicago buildings should be limited to 160 feet. A long debate followed the report to the Council, and the ordinance was finally amended to read that no building should be over 130 feet in height—or ten stories, and passed in that form.

Possibly the New Postmaster-Violated the Postal, Law-German-Lutheren Church Unroofed-A Fortune Peters Out.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.] COLUMBUS, March 9.-Years ago, in the early days of pioneer railroading, before the old Madison & Indianapolis railroad had reached Indianapolis, when the old flat-bar rail was spiked onto mudsills and used for a track, and car-wheels were made with spokes like a wagon-wheel, a made with spokes like a wagon-wheel, a wreck occurred on a high embankment at Sand creek bridge, near Scipto, twelve miles south of this city. One pair of trucks rolled into Big Sand creek, and was seen there for years. Yesterday the Pennsylvania railroad officials began a search for the trucks, but found they had been covered up by the accumulations of years and loose dirt. The trucks will be due out however, for exhibiting the second of the sec tracks will be dug out, however, for exhibi-tion at the World's Fair, among the Penn-sylvania Company's display of pioneer railroad relics. A Fortune Peters Out.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.] COLUMBUS, March 9 .- Some days ago the Associated Press dispatches from California announced the death of Asheley Gully, an old bachelor, stating that he had left a large estate and that his heirs were principally in Indiana. The announce ment created considerable excitement here, where several of the heirs reside. It was said that at least one million dollars would come to herrs in this city and county. legal investigation was begun, and this morning a messare was received from Ukiah, Cal., stating that Gulley's estate was not worth over $1,000. and $600 was devised by will to friends there, and $400 to Elizabeth Hardin, of Kentucky.

Paid Interest For Thirty Years. (Special to The Indianapolis News )

COLUMBUS, March 9 .- A curious petition was filed with the county commissioners by Mrs. John Warner, an aged and infirm German lady, asking the unconditional release of a two-hundred-dollar school fund mortgage of over thirty years' standing. Her husband was drafted and the money was borrowed to procure a substitute. Her husband died, and for years she kept the interest paid up, but she now alleges, on account of age and infirmity, and the poor quality of the eighty acres of clay soil, she can not make enough to pay the interests, and asks an unconditional release. ests, and asks an unconditional release.

President Coulter's Resignation.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]
MARTINSVILLE, March 9.—Col. J. H. Jordan, of this city, one of the trustees of the Indiana State University, is authority for the statement that Dr. John M. Conlte has tendered his resignation as president of that institution to accept the presidency of Lake Forest University, Chicago. Nothing definite has yet been done regarding Dr. Coulter's successor.

Possibly the New Postmaster [Special to The Indianapolis News.] ROCKPORT, March 9.—There was a change in a business firm here this morning, Henry Hock, grocer, selling out to Messrs. Brothers & Varner. Mr. Varner is at present county superintendent, and Mr. Brothers has been with Mr. Hock for years. This change, it is thought, indicates that Mr.

Hock will be the new postmaster for Rock-port. Taylor promised him the place. Escaped From Jail. [Special to The Indianapolis News.] ROCKPORT, March 9 .- James Henderson colored, has escaped from the county jail He was awaiting trial on charge of having killed another colored man. He effected his escape by knocking down the janitor as the latter entered with coal.

Lutheran Church Unroofed, [Special to The Indianapolis News.] COLUMBUS, March 9.—The Clifty German Lutheran church, near this city, was un-roofed, and part of the upper walls were blown down during the severe hail and wind storm at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The damage is about $1,000.

A great party organized in La Porte County to run down a wolf which had been seen on the Poriage prairie, and the animal was chased for several miles without capture. During the run the wolf whipped several dogs which had the temerity to attack him.

The State has decided to prosecute Alexis Coquillard, of South Bend, for the murder of Lewis Johnson, of Chicago. Johnson was found lying in an unconscious condition beside the railway tracks, with his skull fractured and wrist broken, and it was the supposition that he had fallen off a Lake Shore train. He had gone to South Bend to visit his sweetheart, who, it is intimated, had been keeping clandestine company with Coquillard, who is a man of family. Coquillard was intensely jealous, and threatened to kill anyone found in company with the girl, and he also threat-ened her. This led to his arrest for surety of the peace, and he is still in jail. After John-son's death he is said to have boasted that his

William Wilson, of Jeffersonville, is larmingly ill. He is seventy-five years old, and he was the first river engineer receiving a certificate under the law requiring captains, pilots and engineers to be licensed.

Ella Brown is lying in the Vigo county asylum at the point of death, due to criminal malpractice, and S. Owen Davis is under suspicion as the alleged physician in the case. The woman tells a terrible story of suffering and illustrations.

Riley Fox, of New Albany, a postal clerk on the Monon route, has been placed under arrest, charged with robbing the mails. He was captured through the medium of decoy letters. Fox was appointed by the Cleveland administration six years ago.

Col. R. W. Thompson, of Terre Haute, has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to venture out. He is preparing to make a trip to arizona, to remain two weeks. He will be accompanied by Harry and Miss Mary Thompson and D. W. Henry.

Dr. J. E. Miller, representing the Ft. Wayne health board, made a raid among the milkmen, armed with a lactometer. Nineteen wagons were halted and the milk tested, and in only three instances was it found it to drink. He found chalk, water, and almost everything else save the genuine prod A mad dog rushed into Mrs. W. Smith's home at Worthington, springing at the lady, but failing to bite her. Some of the animal's saliva, however, fell on the lady's face, throwing her into hysterics through fright. With the hope of reassuring her Mrs. Smith was taken to Terre Haute and a mad stone applied. The stone failed to adhere.

John Donovan, of Elkhart, and J. C. Comstock, claiming to be the champion wrestler of the Pacific slope, were pitted against each other in a boxing match, as they claimed, for "points." The affair was to come off at Adameville, but when the crowd as sembled the authorities of the village interposed and the match was declared off.

Jasper Young, of Brazil, teased his wife by snapping a revolver in her face. He sup-posed the weapon to be unloaded, but, instead, one cartridge remained in place, which was discharged. The bullet struck Mrs Young in the face, tearing out her left eye and pass-ing into the brain. The injury is fatal. The couple have been married but a short time.

A team of spirited horses, driven by Lor mas, of Dana, took fright at an approaching train, upset the wagon and dashed away. In their mad flight they collided with a horse driven by Mrs. Horace Nelson, killing the animal and pulling the wreck of Thomas's wagon over the Nelson rig, demolishing the Nelson buggy. Mrs. Nelson was thrown out and run over, and yet escaped material hurt. Mr. Thomas and wife also escaped serious injury. Thomas B. Hart, of Warrick County, who served in the State Senate, died very suddenly at his home near Booneville. The same night a valuable span of mules on his farm also died. One week later, his brother, John N. Hart, also died very suddenly, and the next morning a span of mules, the best on his farm, were found dead in the barn. The coincidence excited considerable talk. The Harts were numbered among the prominent farmers of Warriek County. of Warrick County.

Residents of Loogootee made a strenuous resistance against granting liquor license to Pius A. Arvin and Joseph Ackerman, but Arvin was successful in his application before the Martin county commissioners. Ackerman falled to give notice in time, and his request was withdrawn. Ackerman wanted to succeed his brother, A. T. Ackerman, who has been in the saloon business for years and who has rethe saloon business for years, and who has re ceived assurances from Congressman Bretz that he will be appointed postmaster at William Moran, of Huntington, brakeman on the Chicago & Erie line, while assisting in shunting cars, caught his left foot in the chain hanging down from the engine tank, which is used in holding the air-brake pipe when the pipe is not connected up. In this position he was dragged along between the rails. Some-body saw his predicament and yelled to the engineer, who came to a sudden halt. This alone saved Moran from dismemberment, as his right foot had caught in a switch and his limbs were stretched to the utmost tension.

Terre Haute had a thirty minutes' sceance with a wind storm yesterday afternoon, during which time a number of buildings were un-roofed and considerable damage resulted. A huge bulletin board, which toppied over under the pressure of the wind, caught Thomas Thomas and Sherman Ingraham underneath, and Mr. Thomas was maimed for life. A portion of the second story of the new planing mill at Highland Place was forced in, and Superintendent J. M. Bevis and Henry Ward, an egploye, were badly bruised. Other work-men were greatly imperrilled. Sign boards and chimneys were strewn in every direction, and the greatest alarm was felt during the prevalence of the storm. The Lafayette Journal is responsible for the extraordinary story, in effect that some days ago John Schilling, of that city, swallowed an orange seed, which lodged in his throat. Recently the presence of the seed became very annoying, and was productive of coughing spells. All the time he could feel a tickling sensation, and he consulted physical coughing spells. All the time he could feel a tickling sensation, and he consulted physicians without relief. Day before yesterday he was seized of an unusually severe coughing spell, during which he coughed up the obstruction. "It was found," suys the truthful Lafayette Journal, 'that there was an actual orange sprout, about two and one-half inches long, in a state of perfect growth, and with the faint approach of infant leaves appearing at the extremities of several little branches. Immediately Mr. Schilling felt relief. He has preserved the specimen in water, looking to future development.

INDIANA AT THE FAIR.

Cause For Protest Against the

Public Comfort Building. B. F. Havens, World's Fair executive commissioner, returned from Chicago today. He says that the Public Comfort Building, the erection of which was being objected to, is under way, and that there is objected to, is under way, and that there is no cause for entering a protest against it. It is not situated so as to interfere with the Indiana building to any serious extent. It shuts out the view of the Indiana structure in looking north, but all the buildings on the grounds interfere with one another to a greater or less extent in this way. The new building is for the public comfort and will be used as a check and lunch building. It will cost $30,000.

The tile flooring is being placed in the Endiana Building this week. It is about half completed. The woodwork of the interior has been finished and the furnishing of the building will begin about April 1.

A meeting of the executive committee will be held soon to determine plans for expending the $50,000 recently appropriated by the Legislature. The situation at present is regarded as a grave one, and in the solution of it it is thought that the more important interests of the State will receive attention, and that no effort will be made to have a complete exhibit of everything, as was the original intention.

exhibit of everything, as was the original intention.

It was estimated by the executive committee, some time ago, that the cost of furnishing the State Building would be $25,000.

This sum will be cut down to about $15,000. The salaries and expenses will require $5,000 more, the women's exhibit $1,000, leaving $29,000. Out of this amount the pavillions for the agriculture, mines, educational, forestry and other exhibits will have to be constructed.

cational, forestry and other exhibits will have to be constructed.

The original estimate for this work was $84,000. The work on these exhibits has been so far advanced that it is thought to be too late to abandon them. This will cause the work on other exhibits from the State te be abandoned. Mr. Havens says the sum for earrying them forward will have to be cut to a small amount.

Prices of Meridian-Street Property. Prices of Meridian-Street Property.

The deed for the residence property of William S. Hubbard, on Meridian street, above Second, sold recently to Robert S. McKee for $30,500, has been recorded. This was for several years the finest house on the street above Second, but recently it has many neighbors, and the old homestead, while still a fine residence, is no longer conspicuously so. The property is an L.Shaped lot, with a frontage of 121 feet on Meridian street, and a depth of 234 feet. The residence is a substantial, somewhat old-fashioned, two-story brick. This, largely by reason of its beautiful and well-shaded grounds, has long been considered one of the most desirable pieces of residence property on the street. The price paid is figured to be about $165 a front-foot for the ground. DAILY CITY STATISTICS.

An independent base-ball club has been organized in this city, with the following players, all of whom are either professionals or semi-professionals: Fred Schaub, catcher; J. Donavan, W. Sowders and Joh Sowders, pitchers; W. Armitage, first-base; W. Sowders, second-base; W. Hollings worth, short-stop; R. Schaub, third-base; Ed Donavan, left field and alternate catcher; J. White, center field; C. Watera, right field. W. Armitage is captain and Ed Donavan manager of the club.

New uniforms have been made for the members by Spaulding. They are white with black trimming, and on the front of the shirts is the name "The Club," by which title the organization desires to be known. The club will open the season with the Anderson club, at that place April 1 and 2. On the 3d and 4th it will play the Cincinnati League club in Cincinnati, and on the 5th and 6th will play the same club in this city. Previous to the first game here there will be a game with the Hudsons, of St. Louis, in this city. Communications and challenges may be addressed to the manager, at 18 and 20 South New Jersey street.

Shopkeepers are threatened with another kind of competition—as if among themselves there was not enough already.

It takes the form of a new development of the automatic machine, which, if its inventor's hopes are realized, will require an enlargement of Trafalgar Square to accommodate the unemployed licensed vistuallers, soda-water sellers, coffee-housekeepers, fruit merchants and confectioners, who will find themselves obliged to join the chorus of the 'starving poor of old England.'

These new machines are a kind of minature universal providers. Into the slot of one you gut your coppers and receive in return a cup of tea, coffee, chocolate or perhaps gruel; from another lemonade or soda water and biscuits; a third dispenses soda and milk; a fourth devotes itself to retailing bitter ale or Scotch whisky; another sells fruit; one more doles out sweets, and, lastly, there is one which hands its customers a basin of hot or cold water and a clean towel.

How "Pud" Leckie Lost a Finger. [Seattle Post-Intelligen

"Pad" Leckie, the leader of the newsboys' strike two years ago, lost the fore-finger of his left hand yesterday in a peculiar manner. He was playing with a 'coon, and did something to arouse the animal's anger. Without counting the consequences, he put his finger near its mouth, and with a snap the sharp teeth closed down just above the second joint. "Pud" pulled one way and the 'coon jerked the other, which resulted in a complete but rather jagged amputation.

In many cases the call was enthusiastically responded to, and the amount was raised without difficulty, but in some of the States and Territories, where there had been no appropriation, it has been difficult to raise money, and some have not responded from them. There have been a number of gratifying responses to this call, among others being that of France, which has asked for eight hundred square feet in which to make a display of dolls, mechanical toys, games and all things pertaining to the amusement of children. Guatemala and Paraguay have also responded favorably to this invitation. A noted manufacturer of toys in Illinois has given one toy of each kind manufactured by him, making over one thousand. These are not to be kept in glass cases, but are to be put in the hand of the children for play things while at the Fair. The Department of Public Comfort in the Children's Building, is intended especially for the benefit of children. Infants and small children will be received and placed in the care of competent nurses, who will provide for their wants, while their mothers are visiting the various departments of the Exposition. This building will be erected by the side of the Woman's Building, and $5,000 has been paid to the Exposition authorities, with which to begin work. It will be seen at a glance that this The Children's Building is intended tofbe, primarily, an educational exhibit. The adapted in the light of the nineteenth century for the rearing and education of children.

In order that the exhibit may be as complete as possible it will begin with the infant in its earliest and most helpless stage. This department will be in the charge of Mrs. Maria M. Love, of Buffalo, a member of the Board of Woman Managers of New York, who will carry on a model creche. A large, light and airy room will be devoted to this, and in it will be demonstrated the most healthful, comfortable and rational system of dressing and earing for young children. Short lectures will be given upon the most approved food, clothing, and sleeping arrangements, which will be illustrated by an interesting exhibit of children's clothing,

This stage of child-life will be illustrated in the most complete manner by the International Kindergarten Association. the International Kindergarten Association, and under its management will be fitted up in the most attractive way with all the latest apparatus necessary to the exposition of the work. This department will be an object lesson of great practical value to mothers and to all having the care of children, showing that the intellectual and moral faculties of the little ones are unconsciously developed each day by means of sciously developed each day by means of most fascinating entertainments

Miss Emily Huntington, of New York, the founder of the kitchen garden, will conduct a department of this kind, which will follow the kindergarten, where classes of little folks will be taught the useful arts of homekeeping in so interesting and delightful a manner that sweeping, dusting, bedmaking and cooking become a pleasant recreation, when they would otherwise be irksome tasks. The brooms and other housekeeping utensits used in this department will all be of haby sizes.

For children still older there will be a sloid, supported by Mrs. Quincy Shaw and conducted by Mrs. Pingree, both well-known workers in the charities of Boston. This is to teach the children wood-carving, so that the boy who whittles may spend his time in making something more useful than a pile of shavings.

This department will be maintained by the Woman's Exposition Board of Illinois.

TO FOSTER THE CREATIVE INSTINCT. The followers of Froebel, and all those who adhere to the more advanced methods of instructions, have strong faith in the influence of artistic surroundings upon the young, believing that in this way, more than in any other, the creative impulse, which is restly the immortal part of the human being, thay be aroused and strengthened. In addition to the impetus that is given to the creative faculty, the taste of the child is formed at the tender age, when impressions are vivid and lasting. Mr. George L. Schreiber, who has been working on the decorations for months, making outdoor studies for friezes and panels, has some charming designs which very happily illustrate the educational idea, and what is known as the decorative movement in education. of instructions, have strong faith in the in-

Then there will be sixteen seids, four on each side of the building, on which medallions will be painted owing children in the costumes of various tions. These will be painted by Mr. hreiber, who also has some appropriate d attractive ideas for the assembly room, which the greater part of the interior coration will appear. In this room there is the panels ten feet by four, we which will be painted scenes from

Between the windows will be placed medalions, representing the amusements and occupations of children, and these will alternate with other similar surfaces, upon which the signs of the zodiac will be used as a motif, but will be treated in a quaint and fanciful way that will appeal strongly to the unfolding imagination of little people. These designs will be represented by cupids, which shows the sign Gemini.

The assembly-room will contain rows of little chairs and a platform from which stereopticon lectures will be given to the older boys and girls. T. H. McAllister, of New York, has given an improved stereopticon for this purpose, and the services of an operator, for the entire Exposition. This audience-room will also be available for musical, dramatic and literary entertainments, which will be carefully planned to suit the intelligence of children of varying ages.

The Cities of the United States, Canada and Mexico in the Circuit. [Boston Commercial Bulletin.

It still remains to connect all the cities It still remains to connect all the cities in the United States and Canada by telephone. Even more than this, the important cities of Mexico may be put in direct communication with those of the North, making one grand telephone exchange of the whole North American continent. This is not mere speculation. It will ere long be an accomplished fact. When all these cities are thus connected by the telephone, subscribers will have directories, not only of local subscribers, but of all those in the continental system. They will be enabled to communicate, through the medium of a central office, much the same as is done locally through the Boston exchanges.

locally through the Boston exchanges.

The advantage of such a system can hardly be realized. It would be far superior to the telegraph, as has already been demonstrated by the long distance lines already in use. The telephone admits of the identification of voice over the longest distances, and enables business to be transacted with fullness, clearness and dispatch, the making it was a standard and the standar thus making it unapproachable as a mediun

That North America will witness the reatest progress in long distance tele-phony, there is little doubt. Already we have ontstripped Europe with its greatly talked of Paris-London line. ROOSEVELT STREET'S ANACONDA It Got Away From a Dealer in Animals and Was Found Dead. [New York Sun.]

Donald Burns is a dealer in animals at 115 Roosevelt street. He got an order to collect for the Chicago Fair two or three specimens of every variety of snake. Almost two weeks ago he had probably two hundred snakes in the lofts of his shop. Some huge anacondas broke open their box on the day before he shipped them West and crawled out on a back roof. All were captured but one. Dealer Burns became very uneasy for fear it might get into came very uneasy for fear it might get into a warm place and become dangerous. There is a saloon on Roosevelt street, a short distance down from 115. A lamp is in front of the door. At 9 o'clock one night last week some men who had been drinking last week some men who had been drinking heavily came out. They had hardly got out when they almost broke the door down getting in again. They declared they had seen a snake several yards long. On Saturday morning two laborers of the department of public works started to open the manhole at Roosevelt and Front street. The man who went into the sewer found the snake frozen dead. Mr. Burns took it away. It was twelve feet long and had a head four inches long. In its stomach were half a dozen big sewer rats, which it had swalsewer rats, which it had swal lowed.

building does not represent a fad, but a work of permanent interest in which women bear a conspicuous if not an exclusive part. The scheme is entitled to the heartiest co-operation of women everywhere. It is desired that the children of the land assist in raising a part of the money for their building. Any child or club of children sending $1 will receive a printed certificate of acknowledgement. The young people all over the country are invited to take the Children's Building as their work in the great Exposition.

Directly in front of the building will be a fountain given by the children of the temperance movement which is now being made "I had a very pleasant experience with General Butler once," said a well-known lawyer of this city. The Manufacture of Glass Eyes.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

"You run across some funny things in a Pullman car," said Carroll Smith, of the Seaboard Air-Line, at the Lindell yesterday, "I was coming up from New Orleans not long ago, and when we got to Jackson, Miss., a party got aboard that had certainly never ridden in a sleeping-car before. There was a man, evidently a farmer or a planter, his wife and a child probably two years old. They were going to Memphis, and, as they had a little money, they evidently intended getting the best of it, and took a sleeper. Their ignorance was painful. The fellow didn't even know how to get ice-water from the cooler. Finally they went to bed, The fellow didn't hang his clothes on the bell-rope, b. cause the porter was there to show him what to do, The train was making up time and going pretty fust, and there [Hospital.] In Thuringia there is a whole district which is dependent for its support on the manufacture of artificial eyes—husbands, wives and children all working together at this means of livelihood. And yet, though this means of livelihood. And yet, though these simple German village people turn out their produce by the dozen, no two eyes are ever the same. No artificial eye has its exact fellow either in color or in size in the whole world. The method of the manufacture is not a very coruplicated art. They are firstly glass plates, which are blown by gas jets, then molded by hand into the form of an oval-shaped cup. The coloring of the eyes is effected by means of tracing with fine needles, the tints being left to the taste of the individual worker, though the scope of their taste is necessarily limited to grays, and blues, and browns, and blacks, which colors are assorted together before being eventually dispatched to their various destinations. snow him what to do. The train was making up time and going pretty fast, and there were some sharp turns in the road. Well, that party hadn't been in bed long until we flew around a curve. As we did so, the most unearthly yell came from their berth. It was from the child. This was repeated at steady intervals of about two minutes each, until some ladies in the car protested and sent the porfer to the hearth to see what each, until some ladies in the car protested and sent the porter to the bertin to see what the trouble was. As he stuck his head between the curtains he jumped back, and then grabbing the man by the shoulder he shouted: 'Say, boss, wake up; dat ar hammock's fo' yo' do's, not to hang the baby in.' It was a fact, the fellow had put the child in the clothes hammock, and every turn of the train threatened to knock its little brains out."

CITY ATTORNEY-ELECTION - REMOVAL-VACANCY-PLEADING AND PRACTICE. 16,167. State ex rel. Charles G. Renner vs. Robert Curry. Morgan C.C. Affirmed.

(1) The sufficiency of an answer can not be questioned for the first time by assignment of error on appeal. (2) Under Section 3043, R. S., 1881, when a city attorney has been elected by the Common Council, he been elected by the Common Council, he holds for two years unless removed by the Council before his term expires, or unless he is removed or dies or resigns, there is no vacancy which can be filled by the election of another by the Council. (3) The only competent evidence of an act of the Council, such as the removal of a city attorney, is the record of their proceedings; and where such record does not show a vote on a resolution to remove the city attorney there is no removal and no vacancy which can be filled, and the election of another would be a nullity, and such person elected and recognized by the Council could not recover for his services.

THE QUESTION OF CONVERSION. The Rev. J. E. Cathell Says It Is Not Necessary To Be Converted.

A large congregation assembled lastnight at Christ church to hear a sermon by the Rev. J. E. Cathell, of Richmond, who denies the saving power of orthodox religion, and says it is not necessary for a man to be converted before he can enter the church. His sermon was an explanation of his position. He denied any efforts at sensationalism, said he taught only the truths of the church. His sermon was against the necessity of conversion, and toward its close he said: "When we can say to men, 'Come just as you are and let us teach you the simple rites of the church,' then religion will become attractive. Christ was wise, and man with his traditions is foolish. Throw away tradition and we have left, Christ and His sacraments. Bring your own thought to the church just as it. is. The church will give you something for your thought and take you just as you are." He also said that if the new method were adopted many men of other denominations, tired with the use less formalities that surround their religion, would flock to the church and strengthen it throughout the land.

Writes a Noble Letter.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 2, 1898.

Dr. Nott Rupture Cure Co.,

20% W. Washington St., Indianapolis.

Dear Doctor—I have just finished reading the article in Indiana State Journal, copied from the Chicago Trade Review, and wish to say I heartily indorse every word of it. I sincerely hope every respectable paper in the country will publish it, as the Journal says, "not so much for your benefit, but for the tenefit of those who suffer from rupture." If I remember right, you treated me on the 18th of May, 1888, and pronounced me dured on June Council could not recover for his services.

EVERYTHING NOVEL.

A GREAT CHANCE greatest industries of the world have their home. Of these the art of shoemaking stands first as regards the beauty and comfort of a lady's foot. But a few years ago the town of Portsmouth, O., thought it wonderful to make two houdred pairs in a week, but now our factory alone produces two thousand pairs in a single day. Do you wonder that many shoes should become slightly damaged during the process, such as a slight cut, a ripped seam, a torn lining or a cracked patent-leather tip? In fact, we find that every year many, many such pairs have accumulated, and of which we seem unable to dispose, though worth always the last of the consequence. We
